

Results...everyone wants to see them.

This is why so many providers are quick to affirm their own performance by presenting you with graphs where everything is trending “up and to the right”. The problem is that much of that data is presented out of context (or lacks context entirely) and is designed simply to paint a pretty picture.

As an industry leader, Wikimotive takes immense pride in the results that our strategies deliver to our clients. We value transparency and communication as cornerstones of our process, and provide you with meaningful data to help you understand the value of our services. So...if you still want to see some pretty graphs? We’ve got your covered.

McCluskey Chevrolet is Wikimotive's oldest client, dating back to 2009. Since beginning with Wikimotive they have gone from 96 cars per month to over 800, all with only SEO and TV as their two primary marketing avenues (little to no 3rd parties or PPC).

The Faricy Boys Jeep has used Wikimotive's SEO for over 5 years and experienced a 300+% increase in organic traffic during that time. Being in a more modestly-sized metro, they've experienced this lift using a proportionally smaller SEO budget.

Frank Kent Cadillac turned off all their 3rd party advertising and paid search when they engaged Wikimotive for SEO in early 2018. One year later, their web leads were up 80% and they've continued to climb since!